XXXIII

A War Without Enemies

March 8-16, 2025

From Publications

Greetings, Gulf Warriors!

Welcome to Gulf Wars XXXIII – a week of adventure, camaraderie, and unforgettable moments! Whether it's your first time at War or you're a seasoned veteran, we know how crucial it is to have the right information at your fingertips as you dive into everything Gulf Wars has to offer.

That's why we're excited to bring you the Go! Book Edition – your streamlined, on-the-go companion for a fun-filled week at War. This edition was designed with one core idea in mind: to keep things simple, essential, and portable, so you can spend less time flipping through pages and more time enjoying the event.

Inside these pages, you'll find:

Event Schedules – From battles and tournaments to classes and evening revels, it's all laid out for you.

Site Maps – Navigate the War with ease, from the battlefield to Merchant's Row and everything in between.

Class Listings & Descriptions – Plan your week with a wide range of classes covering arts, sciences, combat, and more.

Merchant Directory – Find that perfect piece of armour, the must-have trim, or a refreshing bite to eat.

Activity Highlights – Special events, performances, and community gatherings you won't want to miss.

The Go! Book Edition is built to be your go-to guide – lightweight, accessible, and packed with everything you need to hit the ground running (once you've trolled in, of course!). We've focused on the essentials to give you a site book that's as easy to carry as it is to use.

So, grab your gear, gather your friends, and make the most of every moment at Gulf Wars XXXIII. May your classes be inspiring, your battles glorious, and your shopping bags heavy!

Enjoy the War!

From the Crowns

Greetings unto the people of the Known World. We are so very pleased that you are here to attend what We know to be the friendliest war around. This week will be one filled with so many activities, and We hope you get a chance to try them all (and if you don't, there is always next year)! Take a class or two, shop at the market, watch a battle, throw a spear, sing a song, stop by Volunteer Point, but most importantly, spend time with your friends and hopefully make a few new ones. As the sun sparkles through banners waving in the sky, illuminating all the colors of the rainbow, We hope that your week is filled with as many magical moments and memories as possible. We want this week to be as inclusive as possible, so that everyone has the most fun that they can, and to continue the wonderful tradition of this War without Enemies.

In Service to the Dream,

Griffin & Belisencia

King & Queen, Gleann Abhann

Welcome to Gulf Wars XXXIII! We are thrilled to join you for this incredible week of camaraderie, competition, and creativity. Whether you're here to fight, craft, perform, or volunteer, Gulf Wars offers something for everyone. Take time to explore, make memories, and let this beautiful experience shine brightly across the Known World. We look forward to seeing you on the fields, in the halls, and around the fires.

Have a fantastic war!

Barthelemy & Oda

King & Queen, Meridies

Greetings to our fellow Gulf Wars enthusiasts! We are delighted to be at Gulf Wars again, and super ecstatic that we get to be Crown at Gulf Wars again! We have been working diligently with the Crowns of the other Treaty Kingdoms to plan an interesting and exciting war for everyone. The Treaty Kingdom Crowns felt it was time to try some new things, so we added more war points and rearranged the schedule a bit. Every now and then you have to try new things! Thank you so much to all of you for coming to Gulf Wars. It is one of our most favorite events in the SCA.

Enjoy your time with old and new friends!

Jean Paul and Gilyan King and Queen of Ansteorra

We, Drust and Kira, Crown of Trimaris, are delighted to welcome each and every one of you to this grand event. This coming together of the Knowne World has been one of our most cherished traditions, offering moments of connection, celebration, and joy. Whether this is your first Gulf Wars or your thirty-third, we are confident that you will experience the magic of stepping into the Middle Ages, where history and imagination intertwine. There is so much to experience and enjoy. Fighters demonstrate courage and skill on the battlefield, craftspeople showcase their extraordinary creations, and merchants offer treasures to delight every taste. Across the grounds, equestrians display mastery with their noble steeds, archers hit their marks with precision, and dancers bring communities together with rhythm and joy. Bards enchant us with their songs and stories, while cooks and brewers provide delicious food and refreshing drinks to sustain us throughout the day. Teachers and artisans generously share their knowledge, offering countless opportunities to learn and grow. This event would not be possible without the efforts of the volunteers who have dedicated their time, skills, and energy to making this gathering a success. We extend our heartfelt gratitude to each of you—your contributions, both great and small, are the foundation of this incredible experience. Together, let us celebrate the spirit of camaraderie, creativity, and community that makes Gulf Wars so special. Vivat to all of you! Bring your best! Let's create memories that will last a lifetime! Lay on!

With gratitude and joy,

Drust & Kira Crown of Trimaris

From the Autocrats

Greetings to the Crowns and the populace of the Known World. We are delighted to see that all of you could join us in Gleann Abhann for Gulf Wars XXXIII (33). The hardworking staff of Gulf Wars has been diligently working all year to provide you with more classes, battles, tournaments, revels, more youth combat than you can shake a stick at, and much more. This book will assist you in planning your war so you can get the most enjoyment out of Gulf Wars. We ask that you please read through all the rules to help everyone have a safe and fun war. Please, feel free to contact us or any staff member if you have questions or suggestions. Gulf Wars takes many volunteers and hours to put together and even more to run throughout the week.

Please take some time out of your schedule and volunteer to help in any of the departments. There are numerous opportunities to step in and help make this war an EPIC event for everyone. Our staff has done a magnificent job organizing, planning, and putting it all together, but they cannot do it by themselves. We would like to thank our staff and their deputies for all their efforts in making this war a success. We want to take a moment and give a heartfelt THANK YOU to Mistress Serafina for her 20-plus years as Merchantcrat. Your dedication and organization have made Merchants Row one of the main highlights of Gulf Wars every year. Please take a moment and thank the staff members for all their efforts in planning and executing Gulf Wars XXXIII (33).

Thank you again for everything,

ACTIVITY	DESCRIPTION
Annual Women's Fighting Symposium	All fighters of any skill level are requested and welcome to attend the annual women's fighting symposium. Each year we discuss a different aspect of combat, from different weapon styles and footwork to useful cross training techniques to improve physicality and technique. Please join us with our guest speakers to collaborate as we have for more than 20 years at Gulf Wars for the symposium. Bringing your gear is encouraged but not required.
A&S Competition (adult & youth)	Bring your skills so others can bear witness to win the war for your side.
Ansteorra Game Night	Join us for Ansteorra Game Night, where we gather to play period board games from various historical eras. Whether you're a seasoned player or new to medieval games, there's fun for everyone. Come enjoy a night of friendly competition and camaraderie!
Armored Bridge Battle	The Battle of Three Bridges Upon a field divided by the semblance of turbulent waters, three great bridges stand as the theater for a trial of might and cunning. The central bridge, a bastion of conflict, spans most greatly in width, flanked on either side by narrower crossings. These low-wall bridges, marked by hay bales or ropes, are separated by treacherous no-man's-land. At their heart lies the painted "glory zone," a sanctified space where warriors' fates shall be decided. The battle is waged in five rounds, each lasting ten minutes. Upon the bridges, the clang of steel, the hum of arrows, and the thunder of siege engines will echo. Combatants may clash boldly atop the walls, yet should any limb or weapon fall into the waters below, their journey ends, and they are struck from the fight. Victory demands mastery of the glory zones. At the stroke of ten minutes, a bridge fully controlled by one side yields its point. Should warriors from both sides persist within the glory zone, a grim duel ensues, purging all others until a single side stands triumphant. With no respite for the inspection of ammunition, each clash unfolds unbroken, relentless in its pace. The bridges themselves hold sway over the War Point, their control translating into precious tokens of triumph. A total of 15 points is at stake, but it is the side that first amasses eight that shall be hailed as victors. Here, amidst the crossings of fate, where warriors tread the line between strategy and savagery, the Battle of the Three Bridges shall etch new legends into the pages of history.
Armored Field Battle	Battle of the Sloping Field Upon these grounds where valor meets strategy, a contest of arms is set to unfold. The field, a narrow expanse stretching from the eastern highlands to the western lowlands, vast in breadth. Dappled with ancient stands of trees, it promises both peril and sanctuary to those who tread its soil. Here, the honor of soldiers and Kingdoms shall be tested in a series of five clashes. At the outset, the victors of the Champions' Battle claim the eastern highlands, leaving the western lowlands to their foes. With each successive engagement, the armies pivot upon the field like the turning of a great wheel, their positions rotating to lend no advantage too long to any force. Archery, thrown weapons, and the might of siege engines are all called upon in this martial dance, and yet, no respite shall be granted for the inspection of munitions between bouts. Five battles shall rage, each a crucible of courage, ending only when one side stands alone upon this ground. Victory is measured not by fleeting triumph but by sustained dominion. The side that claims at least three of these contests shall hold the coveted War Point and etch their name in the annals of this grand melee. For honor, for glory, and for the roar of the crowd, let the Battle of the Sloping Field commence!
Armored Fort Battle	To His Esteemed Peers, Fellow Nobles, and Keepers of the Realm, From the hand of Sir Roderic of House Valenwyne, penned amidst the grim tumult of siege within the bastion of our newly constructed stronghold, I relay the dire circumstances and tumultuous play of events that now unfold beneath the heavens. May these words find you in good stead and inform you of our struggle to withstand the onslaught. (cont)

Activity Descriptions

ACTIVITY	DESCRIPTION
Armored Fort Battle, cont.	Our fortifications, though stout in intention, remain incomplete in their entirety. The masons' progress hath rotated the orientation of our new walls, and there stand three entrances to the keep, each varying in strength and vulnerability. The main gate, anchored upon the eastern façade, boasts a resolute block construction and serves as our primary barrier against the invader's malice. Upon the southern flank lies Alexandria's Breach, a precarious opening hastily devised of hay bales, which leaves us with but a six-foot span of weakness. To the north lies Darius' Breach, a wider chasm, eight feet in breadth, similarly formed of hay bales, which doth compromise our line. These flaws, borne of haste and necessity, bespeak our vulnerability, though mayhap in time the stonemasons might redeem these breaches with mortar and stone. The trial is to be waged twice, each side tasting the bitter draught of defender and assailant alike. Ours is a contest of resilience and guile, a limited resurrection battle wherein each defender rises anew but four times, at the sanctified ground within the keep's heart. For the attackers, resurrection is granted every third minute at their forward encampments. The combatants are arrayed thusly: the attackers no closer than fifty feet to the walls, the defenders cloistered within. As the skirmish begins, the gates and breaches remain sealed, though time conspires against us. At intervals, the ramparts yield to decay. Five minutes into the fray, the Main Gate falters. By the tenth minute, Alexandria's Breach crumbles, and at the fifteenth minute, Darius' Breach succumbs. After twenty minutes, the hay bales of Alexandria's Breach may be scaled, and by the twenty-fifth minute, the hay bales of Darius' Breach may likewise be traversed. Thus, the bastion is laid bare to the ingenuity of our adversaries, who may storm the keep through any aperture or ascend the hay-baled walls. Victory, cruel mistress that she is, grants her favor to those swiftest to claim the castle and extinguish the defenders' light. To seize the keep, the attackers must eliminate all defenders and assail the resurrection point, halting the rebirth of our brethren. If neither side prevails ere the forty-fifth minute, the trial ends in stalemate, with honor shared in halves. An additional stratagem lies within: marks within the castle may be struck by siege engines, hastening the attackers' success by lessening the time required to breach our defenses. Thus, with ink and lament, I chronicle our plight. The winds howl with the war cries of our foes, and the banners of hope hang tattered. Pray, let your hearts dwell upon our endurance, and may these words guide those who would assay such trials in years to come. In the Grace of the Realm, Sir Roderic of House Valenwyne, Defender of the Keep
Armored Missile Battle	The Siege of Twin Keeps Prepare thy armor and nock thy arrows, for the legendary Siege of Twin Keeps is upon us! This year's armored missile battle unfolds amidst a bustling medieval township, with teams vying for glory and dominance in a fierce clash of strategy and skill. Two valiant armies shall take their places on opposing ends of the battlefield, each sworn to defend their keep while laying siege to the enemy's. At the heart of this contest stand the great target boards, one adorned with 6-inch plates, each worth two points, and the other with 12-inch plates, each valued at one. These coveted marks are guarded by the "No Play" zone—a sacred ground where no warrior may tread. For 10 minutes, brave combatants will engage in a resurrection battle, clashing thrice in total for the ultimate war point. Armed with missile weapons, siege engines, and sturdy shields, each side must deploy cunning strategies, fortify their positions with pavises, and strike with precision. The pavises, once placed, form unyielding bastions of defense but beware—siege engines can shatter them into ruin! With the call of Lay On, warriors shall surge forth, their arrows seeking enemy hearts and unguarded targets. The battlefield teems with life, as shield carriers defend their comrades, pavises provide fleeting sanctuary, and siege engines rain destruction upon the bold. Resurrection points hum with activity, with fallen fighters returning to the fray every 30 seconds to renew their assault. (cont.)

Activity Descriptions

Armored Missile Battle, cont.	Victory Awaits the Bold: Each round concludes when one side lays waste to all enemy targets or when time expires, leaving the side with the highest score triumphant. The spoils of war belong to the team that claims two out of three rounds, their valor etched into the annals of history. Raise thy banner high, muster thy courage, and let the battle commence!
Armored Ravine Battle	The ravine shall soon become a crucible of valor and fate, where the stalwart forces of Ansteorra and the resolute warriors of Trimaris shall meet in fierce contest. This narrow battlefield, stretching long from west to east, is bound by steep slopes to the north and south, with a treacherous gully carving its heart. Ancient trees stand sentinel over the field, their boughs offering scant shelter, while heaps of debris and shattered earth promise peril to those who venture within. The air shall hum with the twang of bowstrings, though no arrow may stray beyond the bounds of honor, sparing the gathered throng who watch this fateful clash. Each host shall take their place—Ansteorra guarding the western reaches, and Trimaris holding fast to the east. At the rear of each army’s encampment, resurrection banners shall flutter, their sacred charge to restore the fallen and return them to the fray. Three banners of contention shall lie between the hosts, their possession the measure of triumph. The central standard shall stand in the ravine’s hollow, while the others shall be set within fortified houses at the field’s distant flanks. Marshalls, impartial stewards of fate, shall watch over these standards, their timepieces ready to record the ebb and flow of dominion. For one full hour, the ravine shall thunder with the clash of steel and the cries of warriors, as each side presses forward with might and cunning. The banners shall be won and lost, the tides of battle ever shifting as valor and strategy dictate. Each heartbeat of control shall be counted by the marshalls, their devices tallying the moments of supremacy. When the sun marks the hour’s end, the side that hath claimed the banners the longest shall be declared victorious, and the war point shall be awarded unto them. Thus, the ravine shall bear witness to a struggle worthy of the annals of legend, where glory and honor shall be hard-won in the crucible of war.
Armored Town Battle	Struggle for Market Square In the heart of a bustling medieval town, two opposing forces prepare to clash over control of its vital lanes and strongholds. The battlefield is divided into three distinct paths, each offering unique challenges and opportunities for those brave enough to traverse them. Five key capture points, marked by flags raised within buildings, hold the promise of victory for the team that can seize and defend them. Jester Lane, the leftmost path, invites the agile and resourceful. This route forbids archery and missile weapons, making it a haven for close combat and flanking maneuvers. Those unburdened by martial titles find their place here, weaving through alleys to outwit their opponents. At the center lies Market Street, the main thoroughfare and the most direct route to the heart of the conflict. Archers take advantage of the open space, as warriors from both sides converge in chaotic skirmishes for control of the central flag, the symbolic “Town Square.” To the right, Kings Road stands as a proving ground for the most distinguished warriors. Reserved for martial peers, this lane disallows missile weapons and becomes a crucible of melee combat. Strategic resurrection points allow fallen warriors to return to the fray, provided their team maintains control of the area. The flags, representing each team's dominance, must be raised and defended to keep resurrection points active. Every barrier, from the hay bales blocking direct paths to the boundaries of the map itself, adds to the complexity of the struggle. Combatants must respect the limits of the battlefield, lest they forfeit their position and require resurrection. Victory hinges on the ability to control the field. The team that captures and holds all five flags uncontested achieves ultimate triumph. If the flags remain divided, victory is determined by the discipline and resilience of each side, as measured by their resourcefulness in battle. With honor, courage, and cunning, warriors will determine who claims the glory of Market Square.

Rapier Field Battle	Upon a field of valor, stretching from the rising sun to its descent, where the eastern heights command a vantage over the western vale, a battle of honor and arms shall unfold. Here, amidst scattered stands of ancient trees—natural bastions and stratagems alike—the warriors of opposing banners prepare to clash. From the eastern summit, the victorious champions of prior contests survey their advantage. Yet, the west, though lowly in stature, shall not falter, for its defenders wield cunning and resolve. The Gulf Wars' decrees hold sway, permitting death from behind—a dagger's whisper to the unguarded—and the might of spears, sparingly granted, whose tips may turn the tide of war. Trials of arms shall play out in sequence, and the banners shall rotate with each bout, altering the fortunes of vantage and the paths of strategy. Each engagement, fierce and final, ends only when the last warrior stands, for the fallen who cross the field's sacred bounds—by blade's push or their own retreat—are counted among the dead. Victory lies not in a single skirmish but in the dominion of two. The honor of the War Point shall crown the side that claims supremacy in the trilogy of combat, etching their deeds into the annals of this hallowed fray. Courage shall meet cunning, and strength shall clash with stratagem, as the warriors gather upon the field where fate's hand awaits to decree the victor.
Rapier Ravine Battle	Upon a field of contest, divided lengthwise and stretching across a ravine, the forces of Ansteorra and Trimaris gather to test their mettle. The field, marked by three flagpoles aligned along its centerline, will bear witness to the shifting tides of battle. Each side lays claim to their portion of the ravine, with their resurrection points set at the far reaches of their zones. Conventions of safety guide this conflict: rapier spears, death from behind, knee walking, running, and two-handed swords are disallowed. The engagement begins with each army holding their ground, yet the true prize lies along the centerline, where three flags stand as the beacons of dominance. The central flag marks the heart of the ravine, flanked by the other two equidistant from the center and the field's boundaries. Here, strategy intertwines with endurance. A fighter must always keep their army's flag aloft, held firmly by hand, for no artifice of ties or counterweights may secure it. At intervals, the flags raised in glory are recorded, marking the ebb and flow of supremacy. Each side may dispatch a swift runner to observe their standing, yet the battle's outcome rests on the accumulation of these tallies. For the duration of the struggle, victory is not won in a single moment but through steadfast resolve and control of the banners. The side with the greatest count of tallies etched upon the ledger shall claim the laurels of triumph, their deeds immortalized in the chronicles of this storied field.
Rapier Ravine of Bad Choices (Experimental)	Every Rapier War Point will be followed by a 30 minute block for unlimited shield size and unlimited number of spears.

Rapier Trench Battle	A Missive from the Trench To the noble stewards of chivalry and champions of valor, Hark! A tale unfolds upon the field, a stage "where people may play their parts," and none shall escape the measure of destiny. Four houses, stout and steadfast, stand as the prize in this grand contest—a trial of both wit and war, where "once more unto the breach" shall be the rallying cry of the valiant. In this noble endeavor, the armies are sundered into two opposing forces: the Defenders, sworn to hold their ground, and the Attackers, bold in their quest to claim dominion. The Defenders may array their strength as they see fit, from the threshold of the first house to the heart of the fourth. Meanwhile, the Attackers gather in the shadow of their resurrection point, a place where the "sleep of death" is but a fleeting rest before renewed struggle. At the signal of "Lay on," the Attackers advance, seeking to wrest the houses from their keepers. A house, by the decree of the marshalate, is considered "owned" by the force with greater numbers within or standing unopposed along the path between their furthest-held house and their place of renewal. Should the tide favor the invaders, the captured house becomes their new bastion, their resurrection point marked anew with precision befitting the law of arms. Each round, a shifting of roles and sides ensues, for "the wheel is come full circle," and fairness demands that each army taste the rigors of both attack and defense. In this contest of might and cunning, the prize is not mere possession but points tallied across four rounds. The victor shall be the side whose banners claim the most houses and whose warriors stand tallest upon the battlefield's final reckoning. (continued on next page)

Activity Descriptions

ACTIVITY	DESCRIPTION
Rapier Trench Battle, cont.	Let it be known that this test of strength and strategy is no mere sport but a proving ground for the mettle of men and women, where the brave shall rise and the "slings and arrows of outrageous fortune" shall be borne with steadfast hearts. Thus, with honor and resolve, take to the field, where the clash of arms and the cries of triumph shall echo through the ages. In this crucible of glory, let not the fleeting shadow of doubt darken thy purpose, for "all the world's a stage," and this, thy moment, is writ in the annals of eternity.
Rapier Trench Battle of Bad Choices (Experimental)	Every Rapier War Point will be followed by a 30 minute block for unlimited shield size and unlimited number of spears.
Royal Procession	Watch along the path from the Equestrian Barn to the Archery Field.
Sing For Your Supper	Do you Sing? Know any Great Jokes? Are you a storyteller or Poet? Gleann Abhann Encampment invites you to SING FOR YOUR SUPPER! Sing a song, tell a story, or cheer on your favorite bard Menu: Moroccan Stew (vegan), Moroccan meatballs, and flatbread. Join Us in Celebrating the Bardic Arts
Target Archery	Who will prevail in this epic battle? Trimaris or Ansteorra? The answer lies in the hands of these valiant champions!
Target Archery for points or leisure	Come to the Range during any scheduled time to practice at your leisure or add points to your side!
The OFF-Side Retique, Angle is Everything!	With 70+ combined years of SCA Sword fighting, Sir Kurn and Sir Teric are excited to present this class focused on the Off-Side Retique. Multiple versions of this advanced technique will be demonstrated. There will be time for everyone to practice each version and individualized feedback will be provided, so bring your sword and shield. Boffer weapons will be available to practice at full speed. We look forward to seeing you. Come join us. ALL ARE WELCOME!
Thrown Weapons	Gather all and witness this spectacular thrown weapons tournament. The royalty often boast about the skills of their scouts and warriors each claiming to have the best. To settle this they have decided to open their coffers and spend a large amount of gold coins. This is no ordinary tournament as hurlers will be tested in their accuracy with knives, distance with axes, stealthiness and their ability to subdue a charging army with spears. Do you have what it takes to win the hoard of gold coins?
Thrown Weapons shooting or practice for leisure	At the end of the Prince's Highway is the thrown weapons range. Throw axes, knives, and spears at targets to bolster your kingdom and their alliance. You are also welcome to come and participate leisurely. This is designed to be accessible for beginner throwers and challenging for even the most experienced thrower.
Verona Street Brawl	The streets of Verona run with the blood of the Montagues and Capulets. Will you fight for your family? Bring your best fight to play in the Verona Street Brawl. This will be a last man standing scenario where dramatic play is encouraged. There's no prize other than the fun and joy of fencing your friends. We will be in the Renaissance village again so they can enjoy a good fight. No spears allowed. If the space is appropriate, we will run a scenario with RBGs.
War Bard Competition	Join us for the annual War Bard competition, one of the best performing arts showcases at Gulf Wars! Signups for the competition start Monday at 10 AM in the Performing Arts tent and are available on a first come, first serve basis. Two spots are reserved for each primary Kingdom.
Whose Line Doth It Be	Join us for an hour of laughs where the everything's made up and the points don't matter.
Whose Line Doth It Be? Auditions	Come audition for the medieval version of Whose Line Is It Anyway, where everything is made up and the points don't matter. Show off your stuff as you display your hilarious improvisational talents.
Women and Gender Minorities Tournament	Formerly Lady Rapier Tourney - Women and all gender minorities welcome to this tourney. Format to be decided but likely groups of round robin, and then a finals
